

Organizations depend on teams to meet their objectives. A team of engineers or technical professionals greatly enhances its performance when the leader matches their unique nature.

2 or 3-Day Workshops

Presenter

Dr. Michael Aucoin, PE, PMP

Audience

Engineering and Technical Team Leaders

Delivery

For In-House Organizational Development

You have done well in your engineering or technical domain. Now you are leading a team and need to master communication and people skills for your group to shine.

More than ever, organizations depend on their engineering and technical teams, and on good leaders for these teams. Team leadership can mean the difference between success and failure.

Can you see yourself as exemplary in this leadership role?

Your solid systems perspective and problem solving nature uniquely qualify you for a world of accomplishments with your team.

Leading Engineering and Technical Teams will provide you with the tools and energy for collaboration that is rewarding and accomplishes great things!

Benefits:

- Learn the secrets to successful technical management and leadership
- Leverage and build upon your engineering and technical strengths
- Use your mastery of systems thinking to apply to organizations
- Enhance team motivation and productivity
- Apply concepts immediately to work in progress
- Learn how to impress executives and customers
- Develop effective team communications and meetings
- Master attitudes to overcome problems and surprises
- Enhance confidence and esteem
- Unique delivery process with pre-work, post-work, and virtual collaboration